TO-DAY

The foliage of our forests drifts a still mass. Into the crevices of ledge or lodge in standing grain. But the season of life is over, and the nights are rather cold. The end is here of beauty, the forest leaves are old. They are the flowing river or high water. Their life's full span is ended, they are crushed. The leaves are old. The springtime is a giver, the summer the workman of day, a time when children play. Then the days of early winter, of skies a leaden gray. A great white mantle spreading where the summer bough lay. Then, for long, long days, the quiet, except for the hard to see the forest gray and badly thinned. —TITRELL.

We note with regret the passing away was lived in that town. In the shop that stands near the house which was his home for so many years, he made axe handles, ox goads, ox bows and other things. He was a very ingenious man and put the best of his skill into whatever he made there. The brand E. P. K. was assurance of expert workmanship and the best of material to be had. The memory of the E. P. K. axe handle and its genial maker will always live with those who were familiar with them. Whoever should in time to come carry on the same work in this little shop must look to it that the goods sent out from there are of a high standard of excellence if they would compete with the work done there by Mr.

Kimball.

Tamarack Talk

Sindair Lewis

Our contemporary writers are tending to break down the barriers that keep us from seeing ourselves. The different sections of the country reveal themselves to us through the pens of authors. The writer may be a satirist or an abuser, or he may be trying to reveal the need of calmness under the gross superficiality of America. Regardless of the medium of the author, it is evident and noticeable that their works call to mind things which we would rather not bring to attention to bear upon. Truth is hard to listen to. Yet very often the medium of satire, which may border on abuse, is the means of bringing an awakening in people.

Sindair Lewis is a satirist. He is abusive at times and often, we think, he goes beyond the thin line of sarcasm and irony into the realm of sheer burlesque. He loses himself in the grotesque depiction of character, in the misuse of the detail of his sarcasm. For Lewis, perhaps, is the greatest among our writers in pure ability. His detail is encyclopedic. He sees everything in a vast panorama. It is the portrayal of details, not what Lewis says, that makes you feel his bitterness.

In "Main Street" the small town life becomes the target of sarcasm and ridicule and in this novel the details are endless and minute. In "Babbitt," "An American Boy" and "Midwinter" there is a same sharp pen depicting a particular object for the purpose of revealing the superficiality or the folly therein. But with "Elmer Gantry" the author reaches a point that takes him into burlesque and reaching this point the merit of the book as well as the ability and power of the author declines with the result that Lewis' reputation, which was not good with a cam and sordid detail, became at once precarious and unstable. Perhaps "Elmer Gantry" did more harm than good.

In March of this year "Dodsworth" was published. The book concerns Frank and Sam Dodsworth, wealthy middle westerners, and more particularly it shows them in Europe. The ideas of Fran are brought into sharp contrast with those of her husband and we see how the average American married woman conducts herself abroad, how susceptible she is with her husband, who is a typical American captain of industry and will not be ashamed of it. The problem of the incompatibility of middle-aged married people is clearly laid before the reader simply by continual detail of actual fact.

It is the way Fran and Sam act that makes you feel the essence of the novel. For those who have been to Europe and studied both Europeans and Americans there "Dodsworth" may not present anything new, simply revivify. But for those Americans that have not had the "European experience" Sindair Lewis' latest book should be most interesting, entertaining and amusing at times and at least thought provoking. —Tam.

Run-Down, Weak, Nervous?
To have plenty of firm flesh and the ability to do a big day's work and feel "like a two-year old" at night, you must eat three good meals a day, relish your food and properly digest it. If you can't eat, can't sleep, can't work, just give Tanlac the chance to do for you what it has done for millions.

Mr. Benjamin Pratt, Federal Post Road, Brunswick, Me., says: "I was 30 lbs. underweight and had lost all energy and vitality. After 6 bottles of Tanlac I gained 50 lbs. and feel like a schoolboy. My appetite is ravenous and I never suffer from indigestion."

Tanlac is wonderful for indigestion and constipation—gas, pains, nausea, dizziness and headaches. It brings back lost appetite, helps you digest your food, and gain strength and weight. It contains no mineral drugs; it is made of roots, barks and herbs, nature's own medicines for the sick. The cost is less than 2 cents a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist. Your money back if it doesn't help.

Millions More Each Year Turn To

Famous External Method

of Treating Colds

Each year more and more mothers turn to Vicks VapoRub, the modern external treatment for colds, because it is just rubbed on and cannot upset children's stomachs, as "dosing" is so apt to do.

Originally designed and first used largely for children's colds, this better external method gradually spread as one enthusiastic mother told another. Years of actual use also proved it equally effective for the colds of grown-ups. Today the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing" and Vicks—a household word in America—is used in more than 60 countries abroad.

The ever-growing demand for Vicks is shown in its familiar slogan,

expressing the number of jars used yearly. First announced when

Vicks reached "17 Million Jars Yearly"—later raised to "21 Million"—the figure is again being changed, as there are now "Over 26

Million Jars Used Yearly."

THIS is the story the dealer tells. In the six weeks that Socony Special plus Ethyl has been on the market, sales have been climbing rapidly: ten . . .

fifteen . . . twenty . . . twenty-five ... thirty per cent higher. From Maine to Long Island, from Buffalo to Boston, the report is the same: "Socony Special plus Ethyl is going like wildfire."

Here are the reasons: Socony Special always was a superior high-compression premium gasoline. Then we did the one thing we could do to make it better.
We added Ethyl fluid—at no extra cost to you—making the first high-compression gasoline plus Ethyl ever offered in these parts. The result is just about perfection. Read some of the comments on Socony Special
plus Ethyl:

"A few days ago, while on a trip through northern New York, I had a good opportunity to give Socony Special plus Ethyl a good trial. When I left home, the tank was full of ordinary gasoline.

Before I started back, I filled up with

EAST OTISFIELD

Death of David Thulow—Guests at Loeisier's and Townsend's.

David Nelson Thulow died at the home of his niece, Lillian (Thulow) Hill in Norway, Wednesday, Oct. 2nd. He was born in Gray, Oct. 26, 1846. When a young man he came to Otisfield, soon after he was hired out to "Uncle John."

Wardwell and in 1881 he married his sister, Miss Abbie Wardwell. To them were born one son, Johnnie Thulow, who died at the age of 14 years of pneumonia. When Mr. Thulow came into the family it consisted of two brothers, John and Caleb and two sisters, Annette and Abby Wardwell.

Afterward married and lived on the farm next to the Wardwell farm. Mr. Thulow was an exceptionally hard working man, was always toiling on the farm, which gave good results from his hard work.

He was a kind, accommodating friend to his neighbor, tenderly and patiently caring for the older ones of the family as one after another grew feeble and passed on to their eternal rest. His wife, Abbie, died about 18 years ago. Mr. Thulow remained on the home farm with his niece, Lillian Thulow, who was brought up from a very small child in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thulow until a few years ago when he left the old home and went to the home of his niece, Lillian Hill. Although weakness and general breakdown of age came upon him, his ambition for work never weakened and as long as was possible he was busy helping about the farm work. He was unable to work only about three weeks, dropsy and heart trouble developed and his release from suffering soon came.

Mr. Thulow leaves one sister, one brother, four nieces and four nephews, besides many great nieces and nephews, and many distant relatives. The funeral services were held in the Free Baptist church in East Otisfield on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 5th, conducted by Rev. D. L. Joslin of Norway. The flowers were beautiful. Interment was in the Wardwell family lot in Elmwood cemetery.

The bereaved were great nephews, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rugg, Mrs. Hattie Greenleaf and Hartley Greenleaf motored to Lewiston last Tuesday on business.

Do you own a Safe Deposit Box?

Why keep valuable letters, army papers, mortgages, securities, deeds and insurance policies in a so-called strong box or hiding place on your farm? A discarded cigarette, a carelessly thrown match, a hungry rat, or a flood following torrential rains or a cloud burst, might destroy the labors of a life time.

Your valuables securely wrapped and registered by Uncle Sam's mail carrier can be sent to the First Auburn Trust Company without any trouble to you. For a small sum of money, less than the cost of your daily paper, your valuables can have the protection of a Safe Deposit Box in our strong, fire, water and burglar proof vault.

Your mail carrier will bring the articles to you when wanted, if you care to entrust the bank's officers with the key to your box, or you can secure them on any of your frequent trips to town.
